an examination of jewish self hatred viewed as the adoption and internalization of antisemitic stereotypes focuses on the belief in the existence of a secret jewish language and the accusation that jews are incapable of truly mastering the language and discourse of the society in which they live tracing the response of jewish writers in germany to this accusation from the early modern period up to the holocaust discusses the treatment of jewish language by post holocaust jewish writers mostly american and suggests that this particular form of self hatred may have disappeared

this is the first of a series that takes the classical spiritual fathers and mother of the past as models of methodology for a theology or religious thinking adequate to the needs of the present and future the topic of certitude is much debated today on one side commentators such as charles krauthammer urge us to achieve moral clarity on the other those like george will contend that the greatest present threat to civilization is an excess of certitude to address this uncomfortable debate susan schreiner turns to the intellectuals of early modern europe a period when thought was still fluid and had not yet been reified into the form of rationality demanded by the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries schreiner argues that europe in the sixteenth century was preoccupied with concerns similar to ours both the desire for certainty especially religious certainty and warnings against certainty permeated the earlier era digging beneath overt theological and philosophical problems she tackles the underlying fears of the period as she addresses questions of salvation authority the rise of skepticism the outbreak of religious violence the discernment of spirits and the ambiguous relationship between appearance and reality in her examination of the history of theological polemics and debates as well as other genres schreiner sheds light on the repeated evaluation of certainty and the recurring fear of deception among the texts she draws on are montaigne's essays the mystical writings of teresa of avila the works of reformation fathers william of occam luther thomas muntzer and thomas more and the dramas of shakespeare the result is not a book about theology but rather about the way in which the concern with certitude determined the theology polemics and literature of an age a major new biography of huldrych zwingli the warrior preacher who shaped the early reformation huldrych zwingli 1484 1531 was the most significant early reformer after martin luther as the architect of the reformation in switzerland he created the reformed tradition later inherited by john calvin his movement ultimately became a global religion a visionary of a new society zwingli was also a divisive and fiercely radical figure bruce gordon presents a fresh interpretation of the early reformation and the key role played by zwingli a charismatic preacher and politician zwingli transformed church and society in zurich and inspired supporters throughout europe yet gordon shows he was seen as an agitator and heretic by many and his bellicose unyielding efforts to realize his vision would prove his undoing unable to control the movement he had launched zwingli died on the battlefield fighting his catholic opponents this ground breaking book contains contributions from 12 different religious traditions hinduism african traditional religion judaism jainism buddhism zoroastrianism shintoism christianity islam sikhism unitarianism and bahá'í interfaith worship and prayer can be complex but this book demonstrates that in a world of many cultures and religions there is an urgent need for religions to come together with trust and communication especially when there is a crisis full of insights and examples of practice the book demonstrates how religions can be a powerful means of unity and compassion the book opposes the clash of civilisations model as a way of interpreting the world and promotes peace hope and the possibility of cooperation religious believers can be sincere and committed to their own faith while recognising the need to stand firmly together with members of other religious traditions from about 2000 bce onward egypt served as an important nexus for cultural exchange in the eastern mediterranean importing and exporting not just wares but also new artistic techniques and styles egyptian greek and roman craftsmen imitated one another's work creating cultural and artistic hybrids that transcended a single tradition yet in spite of the remarkable artistic production that resulted from these interchanges the complex vicissitudes of exchange between egypt and the classical world over the course of nearly 2500 years have not been comprehensively explored in a major exhibition or publication in the united states it is precisely this aspect of egypt's history however that beyond the Nile uncovers renowned scholars have come together to provide compelling analyses of the constantly evolving dynamics of cultural exchange first between egyptians and greeks during the bronze age then the archaic and classical periods of greece and finally ptolemaic egypt and later when egypt passed to roman rule with the defeat of cleopatra beyond the Nile a milestone publication issued on the occasion of a major international exhibition will become an indispensable contribution to the field with gorgeous photographs of more than two hundred rare objects including frescoes statues obelisks jewelry papyri pottery and coins this volume offers an essential and interdisciplinary approach to the rich world of artistic cross pollination during antiquity examining how augustine reconciled self love and self denial in a unified christian love this book demonstrates the crucial role that continence played in augustine's teaching showing it to be more than an attitude toward sexuality rather it is the operative mode of augustinian caritas autobiographical writings on faith frequently come from the lives of ordinary persons whose struggles with faith are often lived at the margins of the church academy and society yet these voices have the potential to reshape the ways in which each of these fields function to find out what it means to stand before god with all of one's humanity on display is to engage in not only the act of confession but to demonstrate a bold theological reflection that needs to be more explicitly understood by turning to spiritual autobiographies as theological source texts we learn to place our emphasis where it matters most on the people whose lives of faith move us deeply and cause us to re-examine our own lives in light of their witness moving through a range of ancient early modern and contemporary spiritual writers in order to demonstrate a profound connection that unites them all this book portrays how a critical self-examination of one's most personal internal fractures our poverty as it were is the only way to develop a life of faith the dual meaning of the word confession which expresses both a revealing of one's sins or brokenness and the articulation of what one believes this clinical reference covers all aspects of reproductive endocrinology throughout the life cycle including the problems commonly encountered by obstetricians gynaecologists and endocrinologists the subjects dealt with range from normal and abnormal puberty through referral issues related to assisted reproductive technology to hormonal treatment of menopausal women many romans wrote about the belief that an image a sculpture or painting as well as a verbal description or a personage on stage is not a representation but the image's prototype or that an image had particular aspects of life a first group of authors explained these beliefs as incorrect observation or wrong mental processing by the beholder other authors pointed at the excellent craftsmanship of the maker of the image a third group looked at the supernatural involvement of its prototype often a god together these discourses on the animation of images bring us to what intellectuals from all over the roman empire saw as reprehensible or acceptable in beholding images as works of art or as cult images moreover these discourses touch upon ontological and epistemological problems the barrier between life and death was explored and also the conditions to obtain knowledge from observation cross cultural and genuinely comparative this consideration of jewish day schools around the world reframes day school research and policy making and offers original insights into faith based schooling and the public good these articles continue the work of the author collected in previous variorum publications they present detailed historical investigations into the sources and problems of the history of late antiquity and argue for some of the groundwork assumed in the author s recent books
